Recycle Your Kitchen Scraps

Find Your Nearest Soil Site on MakeSoil.org

Will You Help Us Make Soil?

Depositing your food scraps there will keep valuable nutrients out of landfills, restore nutrients to our food system, prevent and capture greenhouse gases, create healthy soil to grow food locally, and more.

Please go to MakeSoil.org and join a Soil Site. Then you can:

- Begin depositing your food scraps there, they will do the composting
- See their list of accepted materials
- Get instructions on how to deposit your scraps
- Connect with the Soil Maker and the other participants of the Soil Site

Did you know produce stickers are plastic and don't break down?
Peel your stickers off and stick in the box before you compost.

MakeSoil is an online platform powering a global movement of communities coming together to make soil. Soil Makers post their Soil Sites to our online map, and neighbors and friends become Soil Supporters who contribute their food scraps.

Pinellas Community Composting Alliance's mission is to bring community composting to every neighborhood in Pinellas County by teaching classes, making presentations, and doing onsite consultations. Visit www.mypcca.org for more info
